

To: Nevada's Governor, Nevada Bureau of Land Management, and Nevada Division of Minerals

Pass Legislation in the state of Nevada banning the practice of hydraulic fracturing in the extraction of natural gas and oil, and/or convince the administrators within The Nevada Bureau of Land Management and Nevada Division of Minerals with the power to stop the gas and oil companies from fracking Nevada and deny further permits to Noble Energy and others whom seek permits for similar purposes. But don't just wait for the petition, give the powers that be a piece of your mind.

Commission on Mineral Resources

Division of Minerals

400 W. King St., Ste. 106

Carson City, NV 89703

August 14, 2014

Dear Commissioners,

The Reese River Citizens Against Fracking is a recently formed group made up of farmers, ranchers and concerned citizens in the Austin, Nevada area. We felt we had to band together to oppose BLM's proposed sale of lease parcels for oil and gas development and are currently involved in litigation to stop the BLM from issuing the leases recently sold to bidders in July.

Our frustration with the BLM stems from their lack of involvement of the public, especially notice to the adjacent landowners and ranchers, who rely on the regions' water supply for their livelihood. The BLM's Environmental Assessment concludes that because oil and gas development in the area has previously been low, the probability of development now is also low. They based their logic on single well development and barely mention Hydraulic Fracturing.

As we have learned, hydraulic fracturing relies on water as a key input and there are numerous reports of water contamination. The Town of Austin has just developed a new Municipal Well at a cost of over $3 million to meet State and Federal regulations. BLM's proposed lease parcels are in close proximity to this new well. Interested oil and gas development companies can enter bids for these parcels through July 18, 2016.

We have appreciated your support of our area in the past. As you are aware, we are a high desert and are dependent on our ground water to sustain our alfalfa fields, livestock and for personal consumption. We need the State's involvement to ensure that as hydraulic fracturing operations come into Nevada they meet strict permitting, monitoring and reclamation requirements.

The drafting and approval of the State's regulatory scheme needs to be an open process. So much of our land is public lands, and if we have only limited ability to address the BLM with our concerns and comments, it is even more important to be able to share them with our State officials.

We ask that you extend the public comment period on the newly proposed regulations and allow multiple public meetings to get input throughout the state. One leak into our aquifer can devastate our basin and end our way of life.

Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Very Best Regards,

Debra M. Amens, Counsel

Reese River Basin Citizens Against Fracking, LLC

Subject: FW: HF regulations

Hi Rich,

Sorry it's taken me so long to get back to you, I've been out of town and stacked up with other issues. Here are my thoughts on the regulation. Other than the issue that we've discussed on the water sampling, I think this regulation is within the framework of SB 390 and is a step forward for the regulation of oil & gas drilling. Below are NCL's specific comments.

1. Section 9 - If a well has been hydraulically fractured, long-term sampling should be required even if operations do not last long, or the well does not produce hydrocarbons. The concern here is the injection of fracturing fluid, even if the operation was not as successful as the operator had hoped. Also, we feel that the law requires water quality monitoring and this regulation envisions specific instances where this will not occur. While we understand the argument that no other state requires this, Nevada should have a higher standard as water is more scarce here than in other states.
2. Section 11 - Although not specifically outlined in the legislation, we feel that a 300 foot setback is not far enough. Also, the provision allowing for an exception to this rule is problematic.
3. Section 12 - Although it is often the standard in other states, we don't see a compelling reason why trade secrets should be protected, especially when an operator is injecting fluids on public lands near groundwater sources.

Thanks again for your work on this. I won't be able to attend the meeting in Elko, but hope that these comments can be shared with the Commission on Mineral Resources.

Thanks

Kyle

Letter nineteen:

Dear Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources:

Fellow Nevadan.

Thank you for your time. Our concerns with fracking in Nevada are extensive and very serious. Thinking of exchanging our limited water supply for natural gas/oil is absurd.

You live in this state, you care about the people of Nevada.

Please consider the failures and repercussions of those who have taken up this practice. Polluted ground water, environmental contamination, methane release, earthquake dangers, unwanted spills, just to name a few. If you are seriously considering this oil extraction that comes with such detrimental side effects, then you, as a governor, are failing. You are failing your good natured, fellow citizens. My kids are fifth generation Nevadans and our family has an extensive history in this amazing state. We care so deeply and need to consider the affects that our children will face.

Please, please, please reconsider following the mistakes of your fellow politicians. Nevada is too precious and too fragile. Sacrificing the well being of the people, let alone sacrificing the scarce and valued resource, the resource of life, Our water, Our livelihood.

Fracking in Nevada is absolutely unacceptable. Please look past the dollar signs, get past the pressures of big oil companies, help move this beautiful Nevada into the 21st century. We have sun, we have wind, we have alternative ways to brighten our children's future. Invest in a better Nevada and go to bed every night knowing that you chose the high road, you chose the people, you chose the land and water, over money and politics. Thank you again for your time and your service to this state.

Concerned and loyal Nevadans,
Hayley Roberts Baumgartner
Jesse Baumgartner
And our kids

Re: Proposed fracking program and regulations for Nevada

Dear Commissioners,

I began researching hydraulic fracturing in February 2013 and have continued to do so over the past 18-months. I began my research as a result of numerous inconsistencies between what the oil and gas industry claimed and what human service organizations and environmental groups claimed. I felt it was imperative to determine the truth since the potential implications to our water, air, and health could be catastrophic.

Although I am not a scientist nor am I an expert in a field pertaining to hydraulic fracturing, I am an intelligent woman who is very capable of searching scientific data to compare and contrast studies. There is plenty of expert generated data performed through scientific inquiry for me to review for inconsistencies and propaganda.

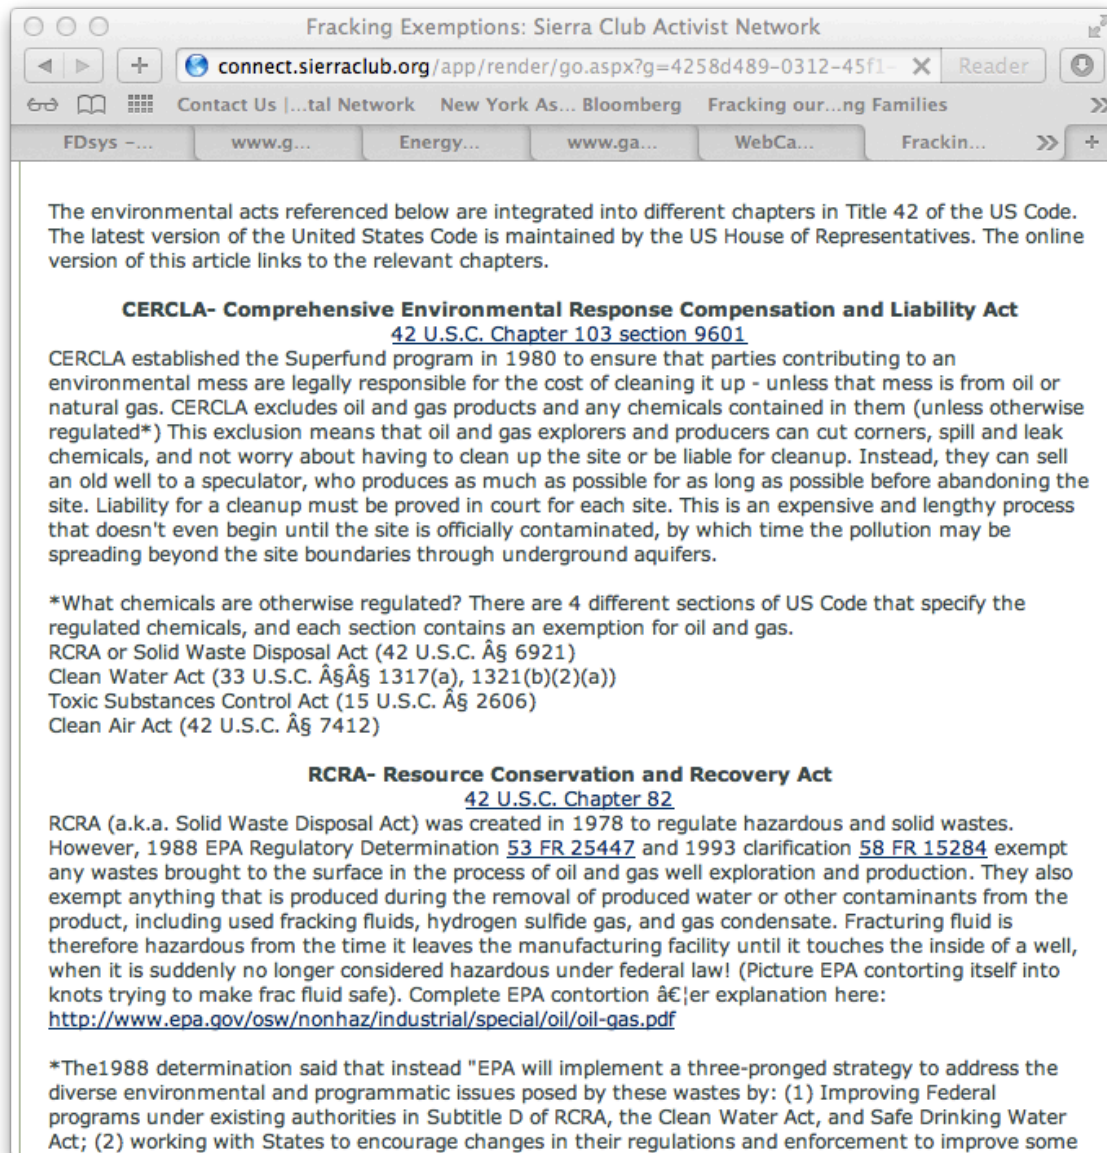

In my extensive review of scientific research, news stories, personal experiences of those on the frontlines of fracking zones, and statues, codes, and regulations, I have found numerous problems, which are very alarming.

For example, there are conflicting claims about the validity of the oil and gas industry's exclusion from the federal environmental act CERCLA. The oil and gas industry representative website, Energy in Depth, states this assertion is untrue—"you cannot be held liable for something that never pertained to you". Yet environmental groups such as Earthworks claim the industry is exempt from CERCLA. This is highly problematic so as a concerned citizen I studied the US

Code until I got to the bottom of these claims. What I found was alarming. Below are screen shots from several sources, which demonstrate that the oil and gas industry is not being truthful.

I. Sierra Club

CERCLA excludes oil and gas products and any chemical contained in them (unless otherwise regulated*)

The environmental acts referenced below are integrated into different chapters in Title 42 of the US Code. The latest version of the United States Code is maintained by the US House of Representatives. The online version of this article links to the relevant chapters.

CERCLA- Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation and Liability Act
42 U.S.C. Chapter 103 section 9601

CERCLA established the Superfund program in 1980 to ensure that parties contributing to an environmental mess are legally responsible for the cost of cleaning it up - unless that mess is from oil or natural gas. CERCLA excludes oil and gas products and any chemicals contained in them (unless otherwise regulated*) This exclusion means that oil and gas explorers and producers can cut corners, spill and leak chemicals, and not worry about having to clean up the site or be liable for cleanup. Instead, they can sell an old well to a speculator, who produces as much as possible for as long as possible before abandoning the site. Liability for a cleanup must be proved in court for each site. This is an expensive and lengthy process that doesn't even begin until the site is officially contaminated, by which time the pollution may be spreading beyond the site boundaries through underground aquifers.

*What chemicals are otherwise regulated? There are 4 different sections of US Code that specify the regulated chemicals, and each section contains an exemption for oil and gas.

- RCRA or Solid Waste Disposal Act (42 U.S.C. Â§ 6921)
- Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. Â§Â§ 1317(a), 1321(b)(2)(a))
- Toxic Substances Control Act (15 U.S.C. Â§ 2606)
- Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. Â§ 7412)

RCRA- Resource Conservation and Recovery Act
42 U.S.C. Chapter 82

RCRA (a.k.a. Solid Waste Disposal Act) was created in 1978 to regulate hazardous and solid wastes. However, 1988 EPA Regulatory Determination 53 FR 25447 and 1993 clarification 58 FR 15284 exempt any wastes brought to the surface in the process of oil and gas well exploration and production. They also exempt anything that is produced during the removal of produced water or other contaminants from the product, including used fracking fluids, hydrogen sulfide gas, and gas condensate. Fracturing fluid is therefore hazardous from the time it leaves the manufacturing facility until it touches the inside of a well, when it is suddenly no longer considered hazardous under federal law! (Picture EPA contorting itself into knots trying to make frac fluid safe). Complete EPA contortion â€¦er explanation here: <http://www.epa.gov/osw/nonhaz/industrial/special/oil/oil-qas.pdf>

*The 1988 determination said that instead "EPA will implement a three-pronged strategy to address the diverse environmental and programmatic issues posed by these wastes by: (1) Improving Federal programs under existing authorities in Subtitle D of RCRA, the Clean Water Act, and Safe Drinking Water Act; (2) working with States to encourage changes in their regulations and enforcement to improve some

Shale "Exempt" From Federal Laws? Um, Not Even Close.

For years, opponents of hydraulic fracturing have perpetuated the claim that shale development is somehow "exempt" from federal laws. One of the most persistent exponents of this talking point is Amy Mall of the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), who constantly pushes the fallacious assertion that oil and gas corporations "enjoy exemptions from critical protective environmental provisions in the Safe Drinking Water Act and Clean Water Act." Dr. George Perdas of the NRDC, in opening remarks at last year's SXSW Eco Conference, echoed Mall's sentiments, characterizing shale development as "an unregulated free for all," claiming that the "industry is exempt from RCRA, the Clean Air Act, the Clean Water Act, the Safe Drinking Water Act."

First of all, the idea that any industry would be allowed to run amok as an "unregulated free for all" is just absurd. Second, while states have (and have always had) primary regulatory authority over hydraulic fracturing, oil and gas producers also have to abide by a whole host of federal laws -- in fact, every step of the way they are regulated at the federal, state, and local levels, often at multiple levels simultaneously.

A report released by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) in September 2012 should finally set the record straight on opponents' claims. In it, the independent agency makes clear that oil and gas developers are required to comply with no fewer than eight federal regulations. From that report:

Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA); Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA); and Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) -- all laws that opponents continually claim are, somehow, "exemptions."

So, not only do oil and gas producers have to comply with overarching federal laws, they must do so on top of a slew of stringent state regulations. To cite one example, let's look at Ohio: after going through the process required to obtain the initial permit from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR), companies must then acquire a number of additional federal reservoirs such as shale, tight sandstone, and coalbed methane formations. Specifically, advances in horizontal drilling techniques combined with hydraulic fracturing (pumping water, sand, and chemicals into wells to fracture underground rock formations and allow oil or gas to flow) have increased domestic development of oil and natural gas from these unconventional reservoirs. The pollutants into surface waters. Among other things, CWA requires oil and gas well site operators to obtain permits for discharges of produced water—which includes fluids used for hydraulic fracturing, as well as water that occurs naturally in oil- or gas-bearing formations—to surface waters. In addition, the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) governs the management and disposal of hazardous wastes, among other things. However, key exemptions or limitations in regulatory coverage affect the applicability of six of these environmental and public health laws. For example, CWA also generally regulates stormwater discharges by requiring that facilities associated with industrial and construction activities get permits, but the law and its regulations environmental and public health requirements for unconventional oil and gas development and (1) describe federal requirements; (2) describe state requirements; (3) describe additional requirements that apply on federal lands; and (4) identify challenges, if any, that federal and state agencies reported facing in regulating oil and gas development from unconventional reservoirs. GAO identified and analyzed federal laws, state laws in six selected states (Colorado, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, and Wyoming), and interviewed federal and state officials and representatives from industry, environmental, and public health organizations.

GAO is not making recommendations. In commenting on the report, agencies provided information on recent regulatory activities and technical comments.

aspects of their requirements in recent years. For example, all six states have requirements related to how wells are to be drilled and how casing—steel pipe within the well—is to be installed and cemented in place, though the specifics of their requirements vary. The states also have requirements related to well site selection and preparation, which may include baseline testing of water wells before drilling or stormwater management.

Oil and gas development on federal lands must comply with applicable federal environmental and state laws, as well as additional requirements. These requirements are the same for conventional and unconventional oil and gas development. The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) oversees oil and gas development on approximately 700 million subsurface acres. BLM regulations for leases and permits govern similar types of activities as state requirements, such as requirements for how operators drill the well and install casing. BLM recently proposed new regulations for hydraulic fracturing of wells on public lands.

Federal and state agencies reported several challenges in regulating oil and gas development from unconventional reservoirs. EPA officials reported that conducting inspection and enforcement activities and having limited legal authorities are challenges. For example, conducting inspection and enforcement activities is challenging due to limited information, such as data on groundwater quality prior to drilling. EPA officials also said that the exclusion of exploration and production waste from hazardous waste regulations under RCRA significantly limits EPA's role in regulating these wastes. In addition, BLM and state officials reported that hiring and retaining staff and educating the public are challenges. For example, officials from several states and BLM said that retaining employees is difficult because qualified staff are frequently offered more money for private sector positions within the oil and gas industry.

As evidenced by the previous example, I do not believe the oil and gas industry claims that hydraulic fracturing is safe are true. I have personally uncovered numerous inconsistencies and propaganda, which has prompted me to initiate several awareness raising campaigns in Northern Nevada.

As a long-time resident of Nevada, I believe we are risking too much by providing a welcome mat for this industry in our state. We cannot afford to risk our water, air or health. The limited exploratory wells that have been drilled have been used as a measure of how safe things are, but in reality, this is a poor comparison to what boom regions such as North Dakota, Texas, and Pennsylvania have experienced.

There are hundreds of studies I could cite with data on the extreme risks to water, air, public health, livestock, agriculture, wildlife, social justice, and economics, which would make it very clear this is not a safe industrial practice. Due to limited space, I will only cite the example for CERCLA. I would be happy to discuss the research further at an in person appointment.

Although there are a few exceptions, I believe people generally want to do the right thing and I believe the Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources and each Commissioner does as well. I believe as Commissioners you believe allowing hydraulic fracturing to occur in our state is the right thing to do. I understand there is a lot of pressure to balance economic prosperity and jobs with environmental protections, but I believe that the facts presented to you are skewed and as such creates a situation where you are not working with the whole picture.

In closing, I would like you to know I applaud the steps the Commission has taken in putting together regulations which are some of the toughest in the nation and I do appreciate the action toward better public involvement. I am convinced however, that we can no longer maintain this type of industry. Thankfully, Nevada is in a prime situation to lead with solar and wind. I understand your jobs are directly intertwined with the mining and fossil fuel industry, but it is time to shift your expertise to a new arena.

We must stop acting selfishly and turn toward methods of revenue and prosperity that will not cause irreversible damage, such as depletion and contamination of our aquifers and fouling of our air. All life on the planet is part of a system and all parts of the system depend on water and air. To gamble with the two resources we cannot live without for an outdated method of energy extraction simply defies explanation.

As humans, we impact everything around us and with that comes tremendous responsibility. I respectfully demand that we take time to study the facts of hydraulic fracturing and not simply rely on industry claims. We must transition to alternative and renewable fuels and look at the larger picture beyond our own immediate experiences and comfort.

Respectfully,
Dawn Harris

Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources

Dear Commissioners:

Are you commissioners willing to sign a paper accepting both civil and criminal liability if my groundwater becomes contaminated from fracking?

In January of this year, my wife and I purchased a home in Gillman Springs, smack in the middle of Nevada. We fell in love with the people and scenery that make up this rural community in the foothills of the Big Smoky Valley.

We are alarmed with the applications for fracking near our new home in Lander County.

I have talked with everyone involved in the approval process, and remain unconvinced that my groundwater is not going to be affected. As you know, Nevada is the driest state, to contaminate the groundwater and my retirement years will be ruined.

Two issues that alarm me are:

- 1.) The fluid that is used to frack. It seems convenient that I would not be able to test for it because its proprietary ingredients are only known to a few officials. This fluid never leaves the ground.
- 2.) There is no plan B, no contingency plan for a spill, or plan for containment after contamination. This seems to be a careless way to develop Nevada's natural resources. Who will compensate me when I'm unable to water my garden or drink the water? Who will buy my contaminated land?

From my research on the subject, most of the people involved in the permitting process seem to be too closely aligned with the oil industry. I have also talked with people in many communities around that country that have suffered damage to their water supplies from fracking.

Commissioners, we all need to be caretakers for the State of Nevada. The risks of fracking to the water supply are too great. I urge you to make sure that Nevada's long term interests are protected by banning any future fracking activity.

Sincerely,

Steve Fisher
Gillman Springs, NV

Re: Second Revised Proposed Regulation of the Division of Minerals of the Commission on Mineral Resources LCB File No. R011-14 - Amendment of oil and gas regulations for oil and gas wells, wells intended for hydraulic fracturing and for geothermal wells.

Great Basin Resource Watch (GBRW) appreciates the time that the Division of Minerals (NDOM) and Division of Environmental Protection (NDEP) staff spent with us to discuss the revised proposed regulations. The meeting was informative and productive to our understanding of the division's perspective on the regulations.

In general, GBRW does not see that Nevada is ready for hydraulic fracturing. Senate Bill 390 from the 2013 legislative session which initiated this process in crafting hydraulic fracturing specific regulations should have required a moratorium on fracking until environmental analysis specific to Nevada is realized. For example, the state of New York has seen significant oil and gas hydraulic fracturing, and initiated a Generic Environmental Impact Statement ("GEIS") which sets parameters that are applicable statewide for SEQRA (State Environmental Quality Review Act) review of oil and gas well permitting in 1992. The most recent revision now in draft form was completed in 2011 in light of recent "high-volume hydraulic fracturing" activities. The state of New York defines high-volume hydraulic fracturing as "shall mean the stimulation of a well using 300,000 gallons or more of water as the base fluid in the hydraulic fracturing fluid per well completion."<sup>1</sup> This definition is consistent with the Nevada proposed hydraulic fracturing regulations.

Nevada does not have such an overarching examination hydraulic fracturing specific to our conditions and that evaluates state level resource impacts. The Bureau of Land Management has done some brief environmental reviews for specific exploration sites such as Mary's River and Huntington Valley, which provide some information, but many questions remain that need to be answered to develop optimal regulations. GBRW acknowledges the first report<sup>2</sup> in a series by the Desert Research Institute (funded by Noble Energy) that focuses on Nevada specific assessment for a Noble Energy hydraulic fracturing project. This is a step in the right direction, but the analysis GBRW expects to see from this series of reports should have been done before any hydraulic fracturing occurred and in advance of regulations. Therefore, it is important that the regulations be as encompassing as possible to try to compensate for this lack of analysis, and exercise a more precautionary principle approach. The regulations can then be revised as we understand the specifics for Nevada.

Permit and Public Process

Permits for hydraulic fracturing wells should be available for public review prior to finalizing, which includes a detailed plan of operations with the anticipated hydraulic fracturing scheme. It is our understanding that the NDOM does not have the process of posting draft permits for public review as does NDEP. Especially given the public concern over hydraulic fracturing, and in the interest of public engagement and transparency, the NDOM should follow at a minimum the same procedure that NDEP uses for air, water and water pollution control permits. This procedure is to post the draft permit for a 30 day public comment period, and process comments with agency responses, and then issue a Notice of Decision on the permit. In addition an appeal of a permit procedure should be installed, so that the public has recourse to an independent body, such as the State Environmental Commission.

Air Quality - Permitting and Monitoring

It is our understanding that an air pollution permit process will be applied under the existing regulations. However, there maybe some toxic gases unique to hydraulic fracturing operations that are not covered under existing regulations. NDEP needs to investigate this possibility and modify its permitting to include any of these.

Ambient air monitoring is also needed at oil and gas/hydraulic fracturing sites to assure that hydrogen sulfide is at acceptable levels and that methane gas is not being released excessively. Methane is a powerful greenhouse gas and there is data that indicates large releases from oil and gas (OG) operations.<sup>3</sup> There needs to be a provision to assure that hydraulic fracturing operations are not emitting excessive greenhouse gases.

When well servicing operations take place in zones known to contain at or above one hundred (100) ppm hydrogen sulfide gas, as measured in the gas stream, the operator shall file a hydrogen sulfide drilling operations plan (United States Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, Onshore Order No. 6, November 23, 1990)

Ongoing air monitoring at lower and upper levels is needed to assure that heavier as well as lighter fugitive air emissions are detected and nearby populations are alerted of any actions needed for protection of public health.

Water Quality – Permitting and Monitoring

The groundwater protection approach of NDOM and NDEP is to assure proper installation and operation of the wells that prevent leakage and flag leaks during operation. GBRW certainly supports this element of groundwater protection. The well construction and testing regimen in the proposed regulations appear to be stringent enough to achieve this goal. The other element of groundwater protection is the establishment of a complete baseline and routine monitoring is also critical to detect any contamination that could occur as a result of operator error, equipment malfunction, or other contamination migration pathways that are assumed to be unavailable at this time. It is the groundwater monitoring aspect that GBRW remains in disagreement with the agencies upon.

The current environmental analysis by the state of New York is that, “activities associated with high-volume hydraulic fracturing pose a risk of causing significant adverse impacts to Primary Aquifers and, therefore, such operations may not be consistent with the long-term protection of Primary Aquifers.”<sup>4</sup> A Primary Aquifer is defined as “highly productive aquifers presently utilized as sources of water supply by major municipal water supply systems.” This concern is sufficient that the New York draft GEIS recommends the following:

- Barring the placement of high-volume hydraulic fracturing well pads over Primary Aquifers and an associated 500-foot buffer to provide an adequate margin of safety from the full range of high-volume hydraulic fracturing activities.
- require a site-specific SEQRA review (like an environmental impact statement) for placement of high-volume hydraulic fracturing well pads that are proposed to be located over Principal Aquifers or within a 500-foot buffer.

Clearly, New York is very concerned about impacts of hydraulic fracturing on groundwater, and unlike Nevada New York has done a detailed environmental review with full public involvement. Many of the locations where hydraulic fracturing is proposed in Nevada may not fall under the full definition of New York’s Primary Aquifer, since they may not be high volume municipal sources, but Nevada potentially impacted aquifers are commonly used by agricultural operations, so clean water is also very important.

In Nevada it is illegal to “degrade” (contaminate) groundwater, and given the concern and potential to impact groundwater from all aspects of hydraulic fracturing operations including production fluid and hydraulic fracturing fluid spills we need to cover all the bases in protection of our groundwater. GBRW continues to see the need for a groundwater model analysis and proper placement of groundwater monitoring wells. NDOM and NDEP staff expressed to GBRW the concern of overly onerous regulations in the context of requiring dedicated groundwater monitoring for each permitted well. Ideally, the groundwater analysis and monitoring system would be for an oil and gas field, which would define a larger area. However, a company is not required to submit permits for a well field, and it is possible (although unlikely) that there will be only one well in a region. GBRW recommends that NDOM and NDEP at least consider well field analysis and monitoring as an alternative permitting process. One way to approach this is to define a well field as representing a minimum area (perhaps on the order of 1,000 acres) including the horizontal extension of the hydraulic fracturing wells, which would then be the “area of review.” Another approach would be to specify a minimum number of wells for a hydrographic basin or specific aquifer as a well field.

<http://www.dec.ny.gov/energy/47554.html>

At the same time GBRW notes that regulations and regulators have been historically needed so that companies do not pollute the environment and impact public health, and that should be the focus of regulators. Even as recently as 2008-2009 toxic flowback/produced water was discharged and diluted into publicly owned treatment works under permit.<sup>5</sup> Regulators should be focused on the protection of the environment and impact public health, so if there is only one well then that company gets to bear the costs of the needed hydrogeographic analysis and monitoring that later permitting will benefit from.

The monitoring system would include the “available sources” as described in the draft regulations, but also include other dedicated monitoring wells as needed to complete the monitoring scheme. This scheme needs to be able to intercept any potential contamination from the hydraulic fracturing operations and sample groundwater at a level as suggested by the groundwater model. The sampling regiment should also include at least an annual sampling. Annual sampling after closure of the well field should be for at least 5 years.

Section 9 subsection 2 in the proposed regulations allows for an exemption from groundwater sampling. As implied above GBRW does not support allowing such an exemption. However, a modification of the regulations using the well field approach could allow for this in the case of permitting one or two wells.

Water samples should be analyzed for all of the following: pH, specific conductance, total dissolved solids (TDS), dissolved gases (methane, ethane, propane), alkalinity (total bicarbonate and carbonate as CaCO<sub>3</sub>), major anions (bromide, chloride, fluoride, sulfate, nitrate and nitrite as N, phosphorus), major cations (calcium, iron, magnesium, manganese, potassium, sodium), other elements (barium, boron, selenium and strontium), presence of bacteria (iron related, sulfate reducing, slime forming), total petroleum hydrocarbons (TPH) and BTEX compounds (benzene, toluene, ethylbenzene and xylenes), and gross alpha and beta. Field observations such as odor, water color, sediment, bubbles, and effervescence shall also be documented.

GBRW emphasizes that the gross alpha and beta is not in the current revised regulations and this is a huge omission. It is very important to have this as part of the baseline analysis. The radioactivity in flowback water is often in the form of radon gas, which can move through different pathways than water. Due to its chemically inert nature radon can migrate through considerable underground strata. Thus, it is one of more likely contaminants.

Wastewater

GBRW supports the requirement in the proposed regulations to store flowback wastewater in on-site containers. It is our understanding that this wastewater is to be disposed of using deep injection. NDEP should investigate other means of disposal in view of problems with injection in other states. Increased seismic has been connected to the injection process<sup>6</sup>, and the Great Basin is also seismically active. GBRW recommends that prior to injection, as part of the permitting process, there be an analysis of potential risk in increased seismic activity and potable water contamination from this process. In some locations it may be necessary to dispose of the wastewater in a different manner such as shipping offsite. This action also poses some risks that need to be evaluated as well.

Wastewater should also be sampled and analyzed for the same constituents as the water and monitoring wells. Flowback fluids are often quite radioactive and could yield a low-concentration radioactive waste that must be handled appropriately and has potential on-site human health implications.

NAC 522.380 “Procedure for underground disposal of water” is quite brief (not quite ½ page). NDEP should include a notification process that shall describe the proposed operation and shall state that any person who would be directly and adversely affected or aggrieved by the authorization of the underground disposal into the proposed injection zone may file, within 30 days of notification of injection, a written request for a public hearing before the Commission. The notice shall also state that additional information on the operation of the proposed disposal well may be obtained at the NDOM office. This procedure could be incorporated into the initial permit, but if the injection well is permitted separately, which appears to be the case now, it should be included in the existing permit process. The principle here is very important, a clear path for public redress of deleterious actions by the operator. It is not clear in the Nevada regulations that a specific notice would be publically filed with the option for appeal.

Financial Assurances

The Colorado regulations contain a section titled “Financial Assurance and Oil and Gas Conservation and Environmental Response Fund (sections 701 through 712), which was most likely inspired by the large number of hydraulic fracturing operations in the state. The state of Nevada should review these sections for applicability to Nevada.

Bonding amounts for drilled wells contained in NAC 522 are probably not adequate. These regulations appear to be based on traditional oil and gas extraction and are most likely insufficient to cover potential long-term environmental damage. Again, to supplement the bonding requirements for drilled wells the state of Colorado has included a number of additional financial assurance provisions that Nevada should include for hydraulic fracturing operations:

1. General liability insurance – “All operators shall maintain general liability insurance coverage for property damage and bodily injury to third parties in the minimum amount of one million dollars ($1,000,000) per occurrence. Such policies shall include the Commission as a “certificate holder” so that the Commission may receive advance notice of cancellation.” [section 708]<sup>1</sup>
2. Oil and Gas Conservation and Environmental Response Fund – “The Commission shall ensure that the two-year average of the unobligated portion of the Oil and Gas Conservation and Environmental Response Fund is maintained at a level of approximately, but not to exceed, four million dollars ($4,000,000), and that there is an adequate balance in the fund to address environmental response needs” [section 710]<sup>1</sup>
3. Financial assurances to land owners - “Operators shall provide financial assurance to the Commission, prior to commencing any operations with heavy equipment, to protect surface owners who are not parties to a lease, surface use or other relevant agreement with the operator from unreasonable crop loss or land damage caused by such operations.” [section 703]<sup>1</sup>
4. Centralized extraction and production (E&P) waste management facilities – “An operator which makes application for an offsite, centralized E&P waste management facility shall, upon approval and prior to commencing construction, provide to the Commission financial assurance in an amount equal to the estimated cost necessary to ensure the proper reclamation, closure, and abandonment of such facility” [section 704]<sup>1</sup>

N.B.: Such facilities may not be in the works for Nevada, so this provision may be added later.

5. Natural gas gathering, natural gas processing and underground natural gas storage facilities – “Operators of natural gas gathering, natural gas processing, or underground natural gas storage facilities shall be required to provide statewide blanket financial assurance to ensure compliance with the 900 Series rules in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), or in an amount voluntarily agreed to with the Director, or in an amount to be determined by order of the Commission. Operators of small systems gathering or processing less than five (5) MMSCFD may provide individual financial assurance in the amount of five thousand dollars ($5,000).” [section 711]<sup>1</sup>
6. Surface facilities and structures appurtenant to Class II commercial underground injection control wells – Operators of natural gas gathering, natural gas processing, or underground natural gas storage facilities should be required to provide statewide blanket financial assurance in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), or in an amount voluntarily agreed to with the NDEP. Operators of small systems gathering or processing less than five (5) MMSCFD may provide individual financial assurance in the amount of five thousand dollars ($5,000).”

Additional Elements of the draft regulations that need to be included

In our comparison of regulations concerning hydraulic fracturing by other states it appears as though many aspects of the Nevada regulations are incomplete and not even under consideration. The Nevada Administrative Code (NAC) Chapter 522 was clearly written largely for traditional oil and gas extraction, where only a small section specific to hydraulic fracturing. GBRW views the hydraulic fracturing procedure as distinctly different than traditional extraction methods and thus requires more detailed and specific regulations, of which other states have seen the need.

Regulations focusing on the following aspects should be added to the Nevada regulations. GBRW recommends that Nevada use the state of Colorado regulations for language on the following:

1. Aesthetic and noise control – “The rules and regulations in this section are promulgated to control aesthetics and noise impacts during the drilling, completion and operation of oil and gas wells and production facilities.” [section 801]<sup>1</sup> There is a provision in Colorado regulations that local governments can apply to the Colorado Oil and Gas Conservation Commission (COGCC) for exemption from these regulations.
2. Visual impact mitigation – “Production facilities, regardless of construction date, which are observable from any public highway shall be painted with uniform, non-contrasting, non-reflective color tones (similar to the Munsell Soil Color Coding System), and with colors matched to but slightly darker than the surrounding landscape.” [section 804]<sup>1</sup>
3. Odors and dust – “Oil and gas facilities and equipment shall be operated in such a manner that odors and dust do not constitute a nuisance or hazard to public welfare.” [section 805]<sup>1</sup>
4. E&P waste management – “The rules and regulations of this series establish the permitting, construction, operating and closure requirements for pits, methods of E&P waste management, procedures for spill/release response and reporting, and sampling and analysis for remediation activities.” [section 901]

5. Pits and closure of pits – NAC 522 lacks detail in this aspect of hydraulic fracturing operations and in particular there are no specifics regarding pit reclamation. GBRW again recommends reviewing the Colorado code sections 902 through 905.<sup>1</sup>
6. Management of non-E&P waste – “Certain wastes generated by oil and gas-related activities are non-E&P wastes and are not exempt from regulation as solid or hazardous wastes. These wastes need to be properly identified and disposed of in accordance with state and federal regulations.” [section 907A (a)]<sup>1</sup>
7. Venting or flaring natural gas – “The unnecessary or excessive venting or flaring of natural gas produced from a well is prohibited.” [section 912 (a)]<sup>1</sup> there are exceptions to this requirement in subsequent subsections.
8. Hydraulic Fracturing specific reclamation – The Colorado regulations dedicates significant sections to reclamation of hydraulic fracturing facilities in sections 1001 through 1004 that spans eight pages of regulatory detail. These sections should be reviewed for inclusion and adaptation for the Nevada regulations.
9. Measurement of produced and injected water – “The volume of produced water shall be computed and reported in terms of barrels on the basis of properly calibrated meter measurements or tank measurements of water-level differences, made and recorded to the nearest one-quarter (1/4) inch of one hundred (100%) percent capacity tables.” [section 330a]<sup>1</sup>
10. Site investigation, remediation, and closure – “This section applies to the closure and remediation of pits other than drilling pits constructed pursuant to Rule 903.a.(3); investigation, reporting and remediation of spills/releases; permitted waste management facilities including treatment facilities; plugged and abandoned wellsites; sites impacted by E&P waste management practices; or other sites as designated by the Director.” [section 909]<sup>1</sup>
11. Protection of wildlife resources – “Prior to the preparation of a Comprehensive Drilling Plan or the submittal of a Form 2A for a proposed new oil and gas location, an operator shall review the Sensitive Wildlife Habitat map and the Restricted Surface Occupancy map maintained by the Commission on its website and attached as Appendices VII and VIII to determine whether the proposed oil and gas location falls within Sensitive Wildlife Habitat or a Restricted Surface Occupancy area. The operator shall include this determination in the Form 2A or Comprehensive Drilling Plan.” [section 1201]<sup>1</sup>

In closing, GBRW finds the revised proposed regulations an improvement over the initially proposed regulations, and still not adequate. If adopted as is GBRW looks towards possible future improvements. Given the uncertainties surrounding hydraulic fracturing and its potential impacts on the specific environments in Nevada and the incompleteness GBRW remains concerned that these proposed regulations will not provide sufficient protection of public health and the environment.

GBRW is open to continued discussion of the proposed regulations and our comments here.

Dear Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources,

I write to you out of deep concern for the potential negative effects of fracking in Nevada. Although supporters of this energy extraction technique often claim that it is environmentally benign, there is considerable evidence to the contrary. Citizens of many states where the fracking boom is ongoing have experienced terrible health complications associated primarily with the contamination of ground water. As you know, water is our gold here in the Great Basin, and we simply cannot afford to put this most precious of our natural resources at risk.

I would add that, unlike many states, we are perfectly positioned to lead the renewable energy revolution that is an absolute inevitability. Our solar, wind, and geothermal resources are enviable, and a long-term strategy of developing these resources—rather than fracking—is a much more environmentally and economically viable strategy.

I strongly oppose fracking in Nevada, as does nearly every Nevadan I know. Please help to stop this before it gets started. While it may be too late for North Dakota and Pennsylvania, we still have an opportunity to do the intelligent thing here. Thanks for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources

Dear Commissioners:

Please do not allow fracking in the State of Nevada. Like New Mexico, there isn't enough fresh water to sacrifice for this potentially dangerous method of energy extraction. In addition, the continued exploration and burning of fossil fuels of any kind, simply delay our transition to renewables.

We need to safeguard our natural resources for our children and future generations. Water used in fracking can never be returned to the evolutionary cycle of life. Don't use a short term fix with long term devastating results.

Please be responsible and don't allow fracking in the State of Nevada.

Respectfully,

Dear Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources,

As citizens of Nevada, we oppose hydraulic fracturing (fracking) and would urge you to use your influence to help prevent any future permits for this practice in Nevada.

We are troubled by the fact that there is a lack of information available to the public on the specific chemicals used in this process, and we believe that the citizens of our state should not be exposed to any chemicals pumped into our land that are shrouded in secrecy the way that these chemicals have been.

Also, despite comments from the industry to the effect that this process is safe and that people who oppose it are simply uninformed, there is evidence in other states of contamination of drinking water supplies and carcinogens such as benzene being found in Wyoming at 50 times the normal concentration. If even a slight risk to the aquifers in Nevada exists, since water is such a scarce resource in our state, no hydraulic fracturing should be permitted without a disclosure of the chemicals being used and an independent study as to whether or not these chemicals pose a potential hazard to our citizens. It is much better to prevent environmental disasters before they occur than to try to mitigate the effects of such incidents.

High incidences of earthquakes where previously few or none had occurred, which is almost certainly due to the practice of hydraulic fracturing, have also been reported. Nevada already has some very earthquake-prone regions, and if there is a chance that a major earthquake could be triggered by such a practice, this certainly warrants concern.

The fact that loopholes exist making hydraulic fracturing exempt from compliance with the Clean Water Act and regulatory oversight by the EPA should also be addressed by legislation to protect our state from any possibility of contamination. If the federal laws don't protect us, Nevada needs to have its own laws that will. Nothing less than full disclosure of the chemicals being used is acceptable, followed by environmental impact studies on the areas in question.

Short-term profits for our state cannot be weighed against possible long-term negative consequences, and again, we would urge you to act to keep our fragile environment safe.

Thank you very much.

Dear Governor Sandoval and the Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources-

On behalf of our 4,000 supporters in Nevada, we urge you to ban fracking. This dangerous, industrial process has driven down property values, endangered public health and contaminated air and water across the country. Nevada has an opportunity to avoid these unfortunate consequences by choosing a different path.

To Whom it may Concern,

I simply cannot comprehend that we are preparing to frack up Nevada. The evidence that fracking is destroying the planet—and at an alarming rate—is overwhelming.

Fracking causes massive, numerous leaks and spills. It destroys life in rivers, streams, and oceans. It contaminates millions of gallons of water for each well. And we are in a draught.

Fracking also causes earthquakes. Youngstown, Ohio, had never seen earthquakes during its recorded history. However, when fracking began, so did the earthquakes. Hundreds. And as soon as the fracking stopped, so did the earthquakes. Why on earth would we have a repeat of this massive destruction here before we learn the same lesson?

Fracking is irreversible, and it is bringing extreme concentrations of toxins into the air. This is accelerating global warming and causing, for one, methane plumes and gas bubbles which have resulted in the earth to open up in what are now 3 enormous craters in Siberia, where temperatures were once known for being frigid until very recently, and where now their cold temperatures are suddenly a thing of the past. There, the methane in the air surrounding these craters already measures 53,000 times the normal concentration!

The last time there was our current amount of atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub> was 3 million years ago, when seas were 80 to 100 feet higher. And since the Industrial Revolution, atmospheric methane has more than doubled; the amount now gushing from the seas alone is 34 times what we thought just seven years ago!

Until we stop pouring more toxic gases, including carbon dioxide, methane, and hundreds of other contaminants into our air—and until we stop polluting our very limited clean water supply beyond the possibility of its being usable ever again—we are simply rushing to end all life on this planet. There is nothing that makes the oil and gas companies' financial gain worth killing the planet and everything on it!

I am begging you to come to your senses and say NO to fracking before it is too late!

Sincerely,

Deborah Gordillo

Dear Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources,

I am writing you about fracking in Nevada. I am totally against and these are the reasons why. There are towns in Texas that did fracking and now do not have drinking water it is poisoned or dried up and they had no idea it would do that. Fracking puts cancer causing chemicals by the hundreds in the fluids they use they are Toxic! We have enough problems in Nevada with getting water and keeping it clean. Fracking uses millions of gallons of water and we are now just trying to get Lake Mead back to normal. We cannot waste a drop of water in Nevada. Most people do not even know what Fracking is which makes it very dangerous. People are not going to oppose something they know nothing about right? Fracking also affects our air quality from the diesel trucks running 24/7. I think it causes earth quakes as it tears apart the earth. We are killing our planet, what are you going to tell your voters when they do not have water and their air is polluted?

Please say No to Fracking

Thank you

Regarding: Fracking in Nevada

Dear Commissioners:

For now, I am opposed to “fracking” in Nevada. This activity has generated considerable controversy in other parts of the country where adverse side effects have been documented. While some of the controversy may be unwarranted, I’m sure there are enough residual concerns to signal a very cautious approach to “fracking”.

I found out recently that the Nevada Division of Water Resources will have little to do with “fracking” other than to grant water rights for well-drilling. The actual supervision of “fracking” will apparently reside with a hodge-podge of state and federal agencies. How useful and effective such a fragmented oversight arrangement will be and how likely there will be things that drop through the cracks is uncertain.

The composition of the fluids (other than water) used in this practice is, if I understand correctly, a trade secret. Without knowledge of the specific agents and chemicals used, their short and long term effect on the environment, the manner and means of cleaning up various messes that could occur, how to deal with possible long-term contamination consequences of underground water resources in an arid state where such resources are so very important, the risks seem too high and “fracking” should not go forward in my judgment.

If there are significant problems...particularly long term adverse consequences of this practice...who will be responsible: taxpayers or a company that may have gone out of business? What kind of long-term monitoring will be involved? Will the companies be given a self-policing authority? Will the state have primary oversight responsibility? Will the federal government have that responsibility since “fracking” will occur on public lands?

Is there a need for concern about wildlife and native vegetation in “fracking” areas? Will any of this occur in critical sage grouse habitat? Will the soil disturbances at “fracking” sites contribute to cheat grass infestation? Many questions arise.

Frankly, I don’t see why Nevada needs this activity, given the fragile nature of our environment, being the most arid state in the union, and with another destructive activity occurring already on large portions of our public lands.....the mining industry, with its fairly miserable record of environmental damage and minimal cleanup....at least in the past.

Sincerely

Dear Commissioners,

The Reese River Citizens Against Fracking is a recently formed group made up of farmers, ranchers and concerned citizens in the Austin, Nevada area. We felt we had to band together to oppose BLM's proposed sale of lease parcels for oil and gas development and are currently involved in litigation to stop the BLM from issuing the leases recently sold to bidders in July.

Our frustration with the BLM stems from their lack of involvement of the public, especially notice to the adjacent landowners and ranchers, who rely on the regions' water supply for their livelihood. The BLM's Environmental Assessment concludes that because oil and gas development in the area has previously been low, the probability of development now is also low. They based their logic on single well development and barely mention Hydraulic Fracturing.

As we have learned, hydraulic fracturing relies on water as a key input and there are numerous reports of water contamination. The Town of Austin has just developed a new Municipal Well at a cost of over $3 million to meet State and Federal regulations. BLM's proposed lease parcels are in close proximity to this new well. Interested oil and gas development companies can enter bids for these parcels through July 18, 2016.

We have appreciated your support of our area in the past. As you are aware, we are a high desert and are dependent on our ground water to sustain our alfalfa fields, livestock and for personal consumption. We need the State's involvement to ensure that as hydraulic fracturing operations come into Nevada they meet strict permitting, monitoring and reclamation requirements.

The drafting and approval of the State's regulatory scheme needs to be an open process. So much of our land is public lands, and if we have only limited ability to address the BLM with our concerns and comments, it is even more important to be able to share them with our State officials.

We ask that you extend the public comment period on the newly proposed regulations and allow multiple public meetings to get input throughout the state. One leak into our aquifer can devastate our basin and end our way of life.

Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Very Best Regards,

Debra M. Amens, Counsel

To Governor Sandoval and the Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources

Dear Sirs,

In opposition of fracking, I present an essay:

ONCE UPON A TIME WE WERE DINNER

Once upon a time we were dinner. Larger, more aggressive, creatures used to eat us all the time. To this very day circumstances still exist where we could be dinner. For instance: get lost in the wilderness of any continent with no supplies and no weapon to protect yourself and see how many days you endure before you are food for other creatures.

In spite of this potential ‘ who’s coming to dinner ? ‘ scenario, humans have placed themselves at the top of the food chain. This is because of the dubious notion that beings who occupy the most spaces on this planet are considered to be the most successful.

Humans may indeed occupy the most spaces here on Earth, but an ironic question arises from the words survival and successful. If we are threatening our own existence through over population, climate changes, pollution, destruction of our biological environment, and causing the extinction of many of Earth’s other creatures ( all of which are crucial issues connected to our survival ) can this quagmire we have orchestrated — within the most spaces — actually be defined as successful ?

If so, isn’t that like being considered the most successful beings because we occupy the most spaces in a toxic waste dump ? And doesn’t this just make us a short-sighted species who have selected against our own survival by bullying and destroying our way in to the most spaces ? And doesn’t this also place us on the menu again in another way . . . as dinner for the worms and bugs in the ground where all of human kind will eventually end up as we push ourselves into a collective, permanent dirt nap ?

Fortunately, we have finally begun to individually and collectively make moves to change our destructive behavior. If we continue to take corrective actions and raise awareness of how connected we all are to the destiny of our planet, we may just turn our impending environmental and population disasters around before it is too late.

Dear Nevada Commission on Mineral Resources,

I oppose fracking in Nevada for so many reasons, but the most imperative, that should concern ALL persons regardless of political persuasion, is that water is one of our most precious resources in this, the driest state. We are in the midst of severe drought. Every drop of groundwater in Nevada is precious, and must not be squandered and polluted by industry profit concerns. Fracking uses, and contaminates, a tremendous amount of water in proportion to resources extracted.

Please stop this degradation of our beautiful state. Let's make Nevada an icon for renewable energy in this country, and eschew the ever more damaging extraction of limited resources.

V/R

Barbara Williams

Dear The Nevada State House, The Nevada State Senate, and Governor Brian Sandoval,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

"Hydraulic fracturing (fracking) is a method of natural gas extraction that is proving to be very detrimental to public health.

One of our goals as a nation and as a state is to protect public health. It is imperative we know the implications of hydraulic fracturing on our citizens in order to make an informed decision about this industry conducting business in Nevada.

A moratorium is needed in order to allow science time to study the method further.

La fracturación hidráulica es un método de extracción de gas natural que está resultando ser muy perjudicial para la salud pública. Una de nuestras metas como nación y como estado es proteger la salud pública. Es imprescindible que sepamos cuáles son las implicaciones del fracturación hidráulica para nuestros ciudadanos para tomar una decisión informada sobre el funcionamiento de esta industria en Nevada. Se necesita un moratorio para dar tiempo a la ciencia a que siga estudiando el método."

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

Sincerely,
Dawn Harris

I hereby DO NOT give my consent for "Fracking" in the State of Nevada do to the fact that it forces me to be a test subject by potentially contaminating my soil, air, and water supply. I object! I say NO! I don't want to participate. STOP!! I don't even want your Natural Gas. I would rather use wind, water or solar energy because that does not hurt anyone.

I am absolutely against fracking. The oil companies are not forthcoming about the hazards and risks and lie about the damage that is occurring in other regions, such as Texas where people's homes, land and health have been tragically compromised. Furthermore, there is inadequate and often no disclosure about the chemicals and solvents used. I emphatically say NO to drilling and fracking in Nevada.

With renewable alternatives to meet our energy needs, there is no reason to mess with Mother Earth. There is a reason and purpose for all materials that are underneath the earth's surface. We obviously don't know why but we are getting a message from Mother Earth to stop destroying our home.

Fracking required a great deal of water which becomes contaminated in the process. We must decide whether we want to have clean water to drink or, natural gas/oil to drive our machinery while we and our children were getting ill and/or, slowly dying of thirst. Period. BAN FRACKING!!!!!!!!!!!!

Fracking is ultimately too expensive for the beleaguered taxpayers of Nevada to bear. If we decide to allow fracking to continue to occur, we must make those who benefit the most pay for the environmental cleanup as well as the health care cost and loss of livelihood of those harmed by this unpredictable process. I think that we will find that the true costs of fracking won't warrant the risk.

Fracking is not good for the environment or for the citizens of Nevada. Chemicals leek into the ground water, pastures, and get into the food supplies. Say no to fracking. The only ones to benefit from fracking are the shareholders, CEO's, politicians, and owners of those doing the fracking. Look at the damages done in Texas, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Wyoming by fracking.

Don't these morons in our government and gas industry know that we know they're sleeping together like the whores for $$$ they are? How many lives and environment have to be destroyed? Sick people, poisoned water and methane spewing into the atmosphere pushing us farther past the point of no return, all to make PACs and gas companies wealthier!!! Insanity, greed, and the deprivation of a society worried about things to buy and utter nonsense!

Fracking has nothing to do with energy independence, although it makes for a good marketing gimmick. It's sole purpose is for more massive profits for multinational companies who are basically despoiling Americas land and future. If that wasn't the case, why would they be seeking the highest prices for national gas on the global market instead of keeping it in the US? They are now doing to us what they do to every third world country: steal our resources, destroy our land, and leave us with the scars and poverty.

This fracking issue should come to the citizens in this State as a measure WE ALL can vote on. It should not be approved by those who are getting a kick back from these companies to do this dangerous method without real scientific research. Why not spend the money for Solar, Wind & Geothermal in this State? It would produce alot of jobs, these is no carbon footprint, & MOST IMPORTANT

"What Is Hydraulic Fracturing? Hydraulic fracturing is a process used in nine out of 10 natural gas wells in the United States, where millions of gallons of water, sand and chemicals are pumped underground to break apart the rock and release the gas. Scientists are worried that the chemicals used in fracturing may pose a threat either underground or when waste fluids are handled and sometimes spilled on the surface." Nevada is still experiencing drought conditions: "The water trickling from a melting mountain snowpack and into the area's rivers and streams has apparently reached its peak, with that peak coming early and looking nothing too impressive. In fact, this will be the third lowest peak for runoff since detailed records were kept starting about 40 years ago, said Federal Water Master Chad Blanchard. It's only occurred at lower levels in 1988 and 1977. "It's pretty ugly," Blanchard said. .." I can only assume the fracking will be via chemicals pumped into the 'wells'. Nevada has enough problems, seriously. I cannot believe we are introducing even more into our state. Who wants to move into a state where there are cases of cancer, numerological disorders, etc. We are having a problem with bringing/enticing people to live in Nevada. Fracking poses a myriad of reasons why it is a bad idea to live in Nevada. I have a new son. I do not want him subjected to anything that can harm his health. Nor my husbands or my health. We can't afford it. PS - Thanks for the Furlough. I haven't been employed for a couple of years now and the cut in my husbands pay is just terrific. Heavy sarcasm, just in case that is missed.

If we applied rooftop solar and rooftop vertical wind generators (that do not interfere with birds and bats like wind farms) to all already developed land, we would have NO need for other power sources and would not waste even more wild land. Sometimes fracking may indeed NOT pose risk to underground water. This is just dumb luck. They really don't know exactly what is occurring in all instances underground...and fracking ALWAYS involves massive amounts of toxic chemicals and vast amounts of now polluted water (not the pre-existing underground water where they frack, but water obtained from somewhere else). There is NO NEED for fracking...it is only of benefit to the bank accounts of those taking the money and running away from the places they have now despoiled for "personal" ( and corporate- thanks Citizens united !) gain.

Despite claims on both sides of this issue, not enough is known about the procedure to make an informed decision as to whether it would be a good thing for our state. 90% of our State of NV is owned by the Federal Government. this was a condition for Statehood in 1864. NV needs to take think about what the Government gets from NV and what we get in return. Thank About it! Stop Fracking in NV before it goes any further.

I happen to live in Nevada but would sign if I didn't. Just yesterday the New York Times ran an op-ed by a leading expert at Cornell who emphasized that fracking pollutes and fracking whacks the climate. It is a scandal and an outrage that Obama has shut down EPA initiatives on fracking, as depicted in Gasland2. There is serious denial of reality at the top which is endangering the future of ecosystems and of humanity.

I hope Vegas people wake up! Too much casino corporate slave-mindedness exists in Vegas: Read as: "If Daddy says it's good, then it must be good." Ummmm, we are running out of water - so NOW WE Want to poison what little water we have left. At least Vegas folks could come to together over that issue. For without water, there won't be any casinos... Actually fracking will endanger their jobs.

Dear The Nevada State House, The Nevada State Senate, and Governor Brian Sandoval,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

" Hydraulic fracturing (fracking) has come to Nevada, and the citizens of Nevada believe an unbiased party should be responsible for creating the fracking program, not agencies heavily influenced by the very industry they are tasked with overseeing. "

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

Sincerely,
Dawn Harris

We have to think what we are leaving our children, grand children and so on. Does it make sense to inject 40,000+ gallons of chemicals into our Earth where our well water comes from? Does it?! NO, of course it does not make sense. Stop the insanity of destroying that which gives us life; water and clean air!

A little late to call it Frack Free - It is public knowledge that fracking has been going on in Nevada for the last 60 years. No need to permit further drilling though. Has Nevada not already been through enough damage caused by mining. Enough!

Ohio has suspended fracking indefinitely in one area because it is now linked to seismic activity. We do not want fracking in our state. The next thing you know there will be giant sink holes appearing everywhere. Fracking also produces nuclear waste. Look at what the gas producers have done to North Dakota. They've dumped nuclear waste on public and private lands wantonly so they don't have to pay to properly dispose of it. Fracking is a ticking timebomb and these companies don't care about our state or the havoc they will leave behind.

Almost every state that Noble energy has operated in has law suits pending against them. You think it might be a good idea for our state to be strong enough to hold off on their poisoning and waist of water, long enough to get the real facts on this very waistful process of extracting a precious natural resource like Natural Gas. The jobs created are for mostly out of state workers that don't pay the taxes locals would and the money goes home to their own state when the boom and bust of Fracking is over. Nobody talks about the waisted Natural Gas from this process. We all know it is poison just like the Earth is round but know person in power cares about that. What about the resource that will now be deleted at a record pace. so much for a long term investment, sounds like Enron is incharge of the operation. This has just started in the Ruby mountains. Mining is doing so well in Nevada due to Gold prices there is no reason for us to be vulnerable and fall prey to another Mega Corp that is so great at convincing us we need more then we have. Its the end of the world as we know and my stocks feel good.

Fracking is bad for everyone and you know it. Let's start protecting the citizens of this state instead of poisoning them since that is what fracking will do. It is already proven in other states that it is bad.

I was sickened when I realized Fracking was in Nevada. Our beautiful Nevada being ruined by greed. Watch Gas Land II, and see why it is bad and how it has ruined the lives of many due to the pollution of the water. Each well needs 2-6 million gallons of fresh water, and we are in a critical drought, so how does this even come close to making sense? Read about Dish TX and see how an entire community was ruined by fracking. Please, please learn more and don't become part of the destruction of our beautiful Silver State. Thank you. Please watch the movie, please!

I am a retired federal scientist with an extensive background in working directly with Nevada State agencies such and the Division of Minerals the Environmental Protection. Both of these departments are heavily lobbied by large industries such as mining and petrochemical. The result of which is their operations are rife with politically based decisions and not sound science or objective interpretations. It would be tantamount to putting the fox in charge of the hen house if they are given the responsibility of developing and administering a fracking program for the state!

Are Nevada's 'representatives of the people' oblivious to this conflict of interest? REALLY? THIS STANDARD ARRANGEMENT OF 'BENEFITS FOR THE FEW AT THE EXPENSE OF THE PUBLIC' MUST NOT BE ALLOWED TO STAND. The fossil fuel industry must be held accountable and MUST BE MADE TO PAY PREEMPTIVELY FOR ALL POTENTIAL FUTURE RISKS UNTIL PROVEN SAFE over the long term. Fracking is simply the injection of toxic chemicals into Mother Earth which endangers human health, contaminates our precious and EXTREMELY LIMITED WATER RESOURCES, and poisons the environment/ecosystem with UNKNOWN LONG TERM EFFECTS. Its PRIMARY BENEFITS GO ONLY TO THOSE THAT ARE FINANCIALLY INVESTED in the fossil fuel industry but at the expense of the public and the well-being of future generations of humankind. YOU WERE ELECTED TO GOVERN AND LEGISLATE FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE PUBLIC. DO THE RIGHT THING, ALWAYS PUT THE PEOPLE BEFORE PROFITS!

This needs to be overseen by citizens not tied to the oil and gas industry. Fracking causes bad water, earthquakes and other damage to the land. There should be representatives from the Native American communities, regular citizens and maybe on oil/gas company. Nevada is not for sale!

When the water supply is polluted the frackers will move out (oops) and we'll be left with the problem ... better to get a grip on this before it's too late. If you still have doubts, ask the citizens of West Virginia what they wished they had regulated instead of relying on the coal corporations' "good will" (sic).

The Hydraulic Fracking requires an inordinate amount of water to make the procedure work. With drought conditions rampant in the state, this is an unnecessary and wasteful procedure. Add into the equation, the process poisons the existing groundwater making it undrinkable. Simply on the water issue alone, we need to think about the consequences before we embrace this procedure.

Legislators should be on top of this already. There are videos of water supplies being contaminated by fracking. It destroys natural resources and habitable rural areas. Legislators shouldn't have to need to have people concerned. This is their state as well. Stand up and protect our home, rather than sell it and us out for campaign contributions.

I am completely opposed to fracking in Nevada, indeed I am opposed to fracking anywhere. I feel it isn't safe for our water supply, nor our planet. The exorbitant amounts of water needed for fracking are not congruent with water conservation and we are experiencing extreme drought conditions. Furthermore, water used in the extraction process becomes contaminated and toxic. The consequences of fracking are yet to be seen. We do not know how this process affects earthquake activity. The current harmful evidence of fracking clearly demonstrates how deeply unintelligent and harmful this is, regardless of the lobbyists who say otherwise and the 'experts' spin on fracking. Wake up, this affects us all. No amount of corporate greed can undo the catastrophic chain of events that will ensue if we allow this.

Fracking one well takes over a million gallons of water. NV is a desert state that doesn't have that kind of water supply. Fracking is not feasible in this state. It doesn't have enough water for the people, farmers and industries that are already here. And that is long before we account for the drought conditions we are experiencing now which may be permanent due to climate changes induced by fossil fuel energy usage.

Yes, fracking has been designated as the bridge fuel to get us off of oil dependency. But it is clear to me that if the incentives that are being offered to oil companies were given to alternative energy companies, I may be signing a petition today to slow down wind energy. So before you approve anymore fracking permits why don't we as a state offer the same financial and tax incentives to reusable, alternative energy sources. Let's all our sources of energy have a level field to expand business in.

Outlaw fracking in Nevada. Science demonstrates that fracking contaminates water, and we don't have enough water as it is. Recent, major scientific studies demonstrate that frackers are not successfully minimizing the methane leaks that contribute to global warming. The Governor and Legislature need to get their heads out of the gas well--the fumes are messing with their brains. For shame--you are supposed to work for the COMMON good.

this is, quite simply, a bad idea. We should be promoting solar energy (which we have in abundance, not an energy source that uses what little water we possess.

I'm moving to ca if fracking is approved in Nevada. My family and their tax revenue will come with us. It's bad enough we have to tolerate inferior schools. Now greedy oil and gas want to rape or natural resources at the expense of our precious water supply. Which we already suffer drought conditions. This is unacceptable. Thanks.

Our water in Nevada is already dangerously tainted with agriculture runoff and industrial compounds, something we'll be working hard to change for our/your future health. No public official has the right to remain uneducated in this respect, let alone sell out their neighbors' interests for financial gain. ALL eyes are on your actions. Some say our fate is in your hands, I say it's the other way around. This is not a debatable topic, protect the sanctity of these lands with the job youve been given or you will leave office in shame.

Dear A Scott Noble CEO Noble Royalties Inc (NRI), President, The Nevada State House, The Nevada State Senate, and Governor Brian Sandoval,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

"Noble Mining has stated that they intend to start fracking in Nevada about 400 miles northeast of the Las Vegas Valley.

Fracking will not only scar the land permanently, very few permanent jobs will be created at the expense of the air, soil and water quality for millions of southern and possibly, northern Nevadans. Please help us stop mining and oil/natural gas corporations from destroying our state with Fracking. We have abundant wind and solar energy opportunities in Nevada and should concentrate on those methods of supplying energy to the western states. "Once you FRACK, you can NEVER go BACK!""

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

Sincerely,
Janice Keiserman

I lived in Pennsylvania and fracking has destroyed that state's water supply in many areas. Some towns have methane coming up their wells and never mind what comes straight from the ground into the houses and pastures through ground cracks. I do not want this beautiful desert basin destroyed together with its ground water. It is the desert, we do not have much water and they are going to waste it on that? Once the water table is contaminated, EPA will do nothing to solve it other than agree that there is some contamination. They are in cahoots with the companies and most often, they do not do any safety check up at all. EPA just comes up afterwards to tell people that the water is dirty and then leaves. There is no way to fix the ground water once it is contaminated. Just stop those people please.

Nevada is so sensitive to earthquakes. Messing with the ground is asking for major problems. History has proven that mining has stripped the land for profit. Then the EPA and clean-up crews can spend years trying to "save" the country and the environment. Be PRO-ACTIVE ONCE!!!

There is no need for fracking. Conventional wells are actually more productive than fracked wells-that's why so many fracked wells have to be drilled one after another so rapidly-and we do not even need the natural gas. Mark Jacobson at Stanford, along with colleagues at Cornell and U.C. Davis, demonstrated that we can get all the energy we need from wind, water, and solar power at enormously reduced costs-reduced energy costs, healthcare costs, bridge and road repair costs-while adding a huge number of jobs, and a great many of these permanent jobs. Meanwhile, the planned destination for a very large percentage of our fracked gas is overseas where the price is a lot higher. This would mean Americans would have to pay significantly more for our own natural gas, while also suffering the environmental degradation that fracking brings. We already have a water crisis on this planet, super storms and other severe weather events thanks to the climate change that fossil fuels bring, and all kinds of environmental destruction that is causing massive suffering. Just say No! Nevada. Say No! to insanity, sickness, and misery, and say Yes! to prosperity, health, hope, a bright future and a good life. Ban fracking and fill your state with renewables. Be a shining and glorious example for our country and our world in these times that are so dire, and yet so filled with opportunity. Thank you.

I have a degree in Chemistry and my emphasis was in Environmental Chem, so I took particular interest in the process of hydraulic fracturing. Long story short, I'm absolutely amazed that, in this day and age of proactive environmental protection, that we engage in such a destructive process. This is the type of behavior that prompted implementation of the EPA back in the day and is the type of behavior that will ultimately result in early extinction of the human race. We destroy the earth for immediate gratification and the powers that be turn a blind eye to it for alternative incentives (likely monetary). Our future will suffer for this neglect, this ignorance, this parasitic behavior. Someday, society will talk about this and say "What the %$#@ were they thinking",, just like they say about similar destructive actions that took place early in the Industrial Revolution when nobody cared. Sound familiar? Sad really, shame on those that support this without at least insisting on proper 3rd party un-biased intermediary studies to assure each area in question is safe for fracking (no chance of chemical migration to adjacent wells/areas). Not only should this practice be stopped in Nevada but all over the US. You can't drink or eat money and that is all that this is about. With no water, there is no life. The current generation may survive but those to follow will wallow in the poisons left behind by all that fracking water touches and it's toxic by products. Not to mention the depletion of MILLIONS of gallons of fresh water (per well!) sucked out of the ground only to be laced with carcinogens and pumped back in to the ground left to find it's way back into the water table.

Fracking. Fracking in Nevada. Well, that brings to mind the fact that we have a water shortage as it is and from what I have seen and read about fracking, it has a tendency to seep into water supplies!!! How can that be good for Nevada? Do we want to chance it??? We already have a nuclear dump site! Are we going to be the dumping ground for that AND accidental leakage from fracking? I know there is BIG money behind all this but PLEASE, Governor Sandoval, for the people, your constituents, do what is right and help us fight the fracking business. Do not let Big Money creep into our statehouse! I have watched you since you came into office and I have been pretty happy with your service to the state so far..but THIS...this is a VERY BIG DEAL!!! Thank you very much!

Rooftop Solar and rooftop wind power are what we need ( we have abundant sun and wind and rooftops- no need to chop up more land). Fracking is for "them" to hit and run, MOT for us.

I don't think fracking is a good idea for our residents & businesses, because it will scare everyone, & that it will likely hurt our environment as we know it. Now most people disagree that fracking is very safe, because it may hurt our water supply. Water & oil don't mix. So tell our legislators that fracking is good for Nevada & that we switch to more cleaner sources. Thanks!

Distributed renewable energy would be so much easier and less expensive to install and is the way of the future. Let's ditch the old power structure. Embracing old dependence on fossil fuels is like asking us to keep typing on typewriters. There are some things that need to be retired.

I have written Harry Reid, who basically said that the U.S. Government, owns the BLM, and will give out the leases!!!! BLM will lease over 722,000 acres which are exempt from the Clean Air and Water Act. The federal government thinks that Nevadans will be sold for $2.00 an acre, to trash it, and then leave a dirty mess on the ground and in our aquifer. I beg our Nevada delegates to stand against the US government and say NO TO BLM giving out these leases for almost free....

Any doubts go see/rent "Gasland" a film documentary. We have so much sun and wind in the desert. Even if fracking was a clean process, why are we not harnessing the energy from these sources first? Why isn't it law that new constructions are built with energy efficiency and solar panels?

Wow! Governor Brian Sandoval could create jobs by developing wind solar power in the state, a step forward but instead want to destroy more land and the environment. Converting all schools and building in Nevada will not only create jobs, but could be done cheaply, and train out worker in a skill that could attract contracts in California to also convert schools, and businesses. We are the driest state in the Union! We are in severe drought. Water from Northern Nevada is already being sold to Southern Nevada. We can not let this happen. Each fracking operation requires millions of gallons of water and then the ground water is contaminated with hundreds of dangerous chemicals. This is a no brainer.

Much of the natural gas obtained will not only not benefit Nevada and western states, but may be shipped overseas. The same destination of most of the tar sands oil that may cross from Canada to the Gulf refineries if the Keystone pipeline is approved. Don't endanger our lands to benefit the oil/gas companies so that can make billions as they ship their products overseas.

Please do not allow fracking in our fragile desert environment. This is a huge mistake. Fracking has been proven to be one of the filthiest forms of oil production we have, and has been proven to be highly polluting and questionably impactful on seismic activity. Nobel Mining's CEO Jason Otteson, has a lot of nerve to use 'God' as an excuse (on his website) to contaminate our water, ruin earth and kill off the population. His asinine claim, 'To glorify God as we supply our customers with clarity and knowledge in the various market segments within the Precious Metals Industry with Noble Character being the standard by which business and success is achieved,' is a sleazy tactic employed against our state and the shareholders he tries to suck off. I don't know what false god he's gotten on his knees to pander to, but they can both shove their cursed fracking where it don't shine.

This is the most unfriendly source of getting energy. It damages the land, aquifers, wildlife, & because our State is prone to earthquakes, can cause significant damage should one happen because of the methods used in fracking. There is also soil pollution associated with this, so you can't just throw the solutions used in this process on the ground. There are other resources like solar, wind & Geothermal that should be done with the money instead of this unacceptable method you want to force on the State of Nevada. Once companies like you damage the environment with this, you just walk away & it is the residents of Nevada who will foot the bill for the cleanup you left behind. The other resources mentioned are environmentally friendly & will provide jobs for this state. If you Frack & destroy the aquifers they will be damaged forever. The term "Water is Gold" is true when you live in the desert. This is what sustains the farming in our State along with people's survival. Listen to what "We the experts that live in this State are telling you"! NO FRACKING EVER!

Though I'm now living in Washington, I was born and raised in Nevada. My family all still live in Nevada and I will ALWAYS consider myself a Nevadan, NOT a Washingtonian. I feel I have an interest in the quality of life and the quality of the water in the state of my birth and oppose, vehemently and vocally, any proposal to mess with Nevada's ecosystem, particularly through such a catastrophically detrimental process as Fracking.

This is a request that you do not do any fracking in the State of Nevada. Our state has the ability to provide more energy than any other. There are huge areas of BLM (Bureau of Land Management) land that can be used for a source of solar & wind energy. To add to this there are numerous Geothermal plants that are currently in operation in Northern Nevada. There are more areas of this source yet to be explored. It is important that you listen to the residents of this State. Living in the desert area "Water is Gold" & fracking does damage the aquifers & will cause a huge problem for not only the towns that depend on commercial water systems but also, those of us who use wells. Take your money & invest in the energy sources I've outlined, not only will it bring jobs to our State but they are all environmentally friendly.

I think it's interesting that no news organization has done any in depth reporting on just what is happening in the areas that have already been heavily fracked. Until I get some actual facts about the impact of this process on the environment I don't want those companies anywhere near this state.

Fracking has been proven to affect ground water supplies, as well as damaging the environment. It has already been outlawed in other nations, but we are allowing these greedy corporations to continue exploiting the only planet on which we all live. I can't believe we are even CONSIDERING this as an option as a resource? Going from one poison (coal and oil) to shattering the shale stone beneath us? What MORON came up with this idea??? How this this MINDFUL business that does not harm the planet or others? The people in Pennsylvania are losing their ground water ...what more proof do you need to STOP THIS INSANITY?

Fracking is extremely destructive to the environment, particularly the water table upon which we all must rely for our existence. Because of fracking's contamination of air, ground, and water with pollutants, I oppose fracking unequivocally. Once these precious natural resources are contaminated, they are lost forever. Please invest in renewal energy resources instead.

Fracking will kill us all. Poisoning of the water supply is a virtual certainty, and once the water is poisoned, any plants and animals grown in that area will also be poisoned. If fracking does not stop immediately, this country will have no safe food or water left. If you value human life, STOP THE FRACKING.

I am not persuaded by the proponents of fracking that it is a process that does less harm than good...as public transportation powered by horses whose droppings were befouling public passage in the late 19th C. led to internal combusting public transportation, now supplanting fossil fuels with other forms of power must be pursued to keep humankind extant.
